GENERAL INFORMATION

This Appendix relates to shares of Common Stock which may be issued upon the exercise of stock options, stock appreciation rights, performance units, the award of restricted shares of Common Stock or other market-based or performance-based awards granted under the Corporation's 1979 Long Term Incentive Plan (the "1979 Plan") or the United Technologies Corporation Long Term Incentive Plan (the "UTC Plan") to participants in such Plans. The aforementioned stock options, stock appreciation rights, performance units, restricted shares and market-based or performance-based awards are hereinafter referred to as "Options," "Rights," "Units," "Shares," and "Awards," respectively.

The purpose of the 1979 Plan and the UTC Plan is to provide additional incentive to key individuals, including officers of the Corporation and of its subsidiaries whose judgment, initiative and efforts are responsible for the successful operation of the Corporation's business and to increase their proprietary interest in the success of the Corporation. No further grants beyond those already granted can be made under the 1979 Plan. The Committee on Compensation and Executive Development (the "Committee") or the Board, acting upon the recommendation of the Committee, selected participants under the 1979 Plan. CHANGES IN FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES

The Prospectus dated June 15, 1989, discusses some of the major Federal income tax consequences of the Plan, based on applicable provisions of the Federal income tax laws and regulations in effect on the date of the Prospectus. Changes in those tax consequences, resulting from subsequent changes in the law, are summarized below.

Tax Rates. An individual taxpayer's net capital gain (the amount by which any net long-term capital gain exceeds any net short-term capital loss in the same taxable year) generally is taxed at ordinary income rates. However, the maximum tax rate on net capital gain is 28 percent. For certain individual taxpayers, the maximum tax rate on net capital gain might be less than the tax rate on the taxpayer's ordinary income.

Securities Law Restrictions. Effective May 1, 1991, a Participant subject to the provisions of Section 16(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (an "Insider") may, without incurring liability under Section 16(b), dispose of securities acquired pursuant to an Incentive Stock Option, Non-Qualified Stock Option, Stock Appreciation Right, or other award under the Plan after the expiration of six months from the date on which the award is granted, rather than six months from the date on which securities are transferred pursuant to such award. As a result, the date on which the Insider must ordinarily recognize income in connection with the transfer of such securities (and the date on which the fair market value of the securities is determined for Federal income tax purposes) will typically occur on the date of exercise or transfer (or, if later, six months from the date of the award), rather than six months from the date on which the securities are transferred to the Insider.

The Federal income tax consequences of any award under the Plan will depend on the specific nature, terms and conditions of the award. Before exercising an award received under the Plan, disposing of shares acquired pursuant to the exercise of such an award, or taking any other action under the Plan, a Participant should consult a professional tax advisor concerning the Federal and any state, local or foreign income tax consequences of such action as they apply to his or her specific circumstances. This discussion of recent changes in the law is neither intended nor offered as a complete summary or as a legal interpretation, and it does not address any consequences other than Federal income tax consequences, including any aspects of state, local or foreign tax law.

Tax Qualification of Plans. The Plans are not intended to qualify under the provisions of Section 401(a) of the Code.
